FORESTRY NEWS

By J. Roland Weston

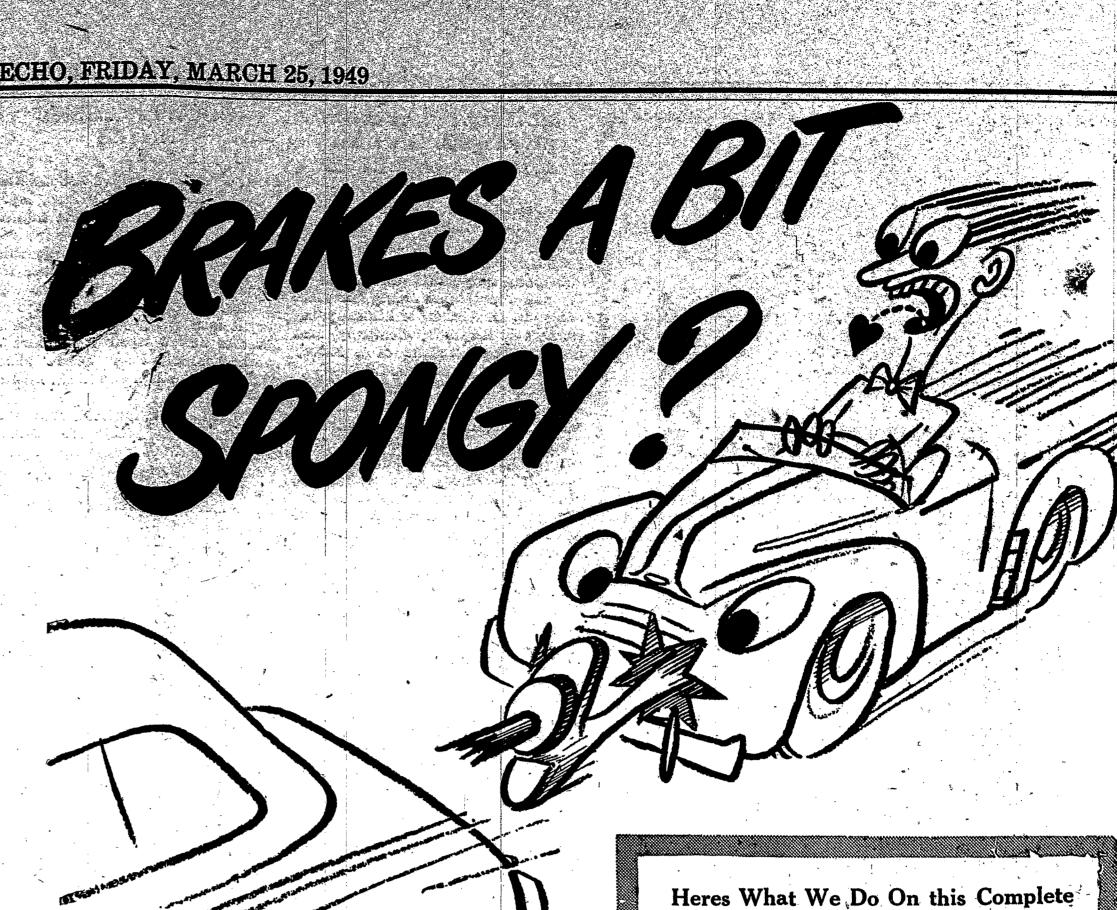

I have noticed in the U.S. Forest Survey Release No. 58 on pulp-wood production for 1947 that Hancock County is listed as having produced 22,934 standard cords of pulp wood.

I understand that it is an expected rule of thumb figure that one cord of wood will produce 1 ton of paper. I do not know how accurate this figure may be, but it is my understanding that pulp wood loaded on a barge or freight car is worth $10.00 to $11.00 per cord.

Using the round figure of 23,000 cords. This means that the timber owners, pulp-wood haulers and contractors received about two hundred and thirty dollars. Newsprint paper now s sells for approximately $100 a ton, therefore if there had been paper mill in the county and this wool manufacturel ina news print, it would have had value of $2,300,000 loaded on freight cars or barges.

Of course there is not enough land growing timber in Hancock County to support a paper mill, but we do have enough forest land upon which to grow sufficient timber to furnish sufficient material to operate a 300 ton paper mill. Thus we can see that the county is loosing millions of dollars by not having every idle acre producing growing timber.

On a perfectly marked Pilgrimage Route, beginning with the Gautier Home at Gautier, Miss., and up the Old River Road to Moss Point, also along the Old Spanish Trail back to Pascagoula, one visited the Singing River and was intrigued by Gautier home on the slopes of the beauty of this spot with its sloping lawns and beautifully landscaped gardens ablaze with the full bloom of large azalea and camellia plants. Inside the plantation-type house, where rare antiques in furniture, crystal, lace ,linen, china and silver were beautifully arranged, over a beautifully appointed table set for fourteen persons, one could almost see the old negro slavey gently pulling the cord back and forth which waved a large fan to keep the beautifully gowned ladies and their gentlemen cool while they dined in the true southern style of those by-gone days.

At Oak Haven one found besides a beautiful home filled with precious antiques, including a rare old spinning wheel, paths leading to the house lined with blooming spring flowers in abundance, and a collection of tropical plants including a Papaya tree with fruit on it. Sweetpotatues require a growing season of at least 120 days when the temperature is high at night as well the major problems facing the state as during the day. For this reason, it does not pay to plant sweetputatoes before April 1 in extreme south Mississippi or before about Aphil 15 in central and north Missis-

> Experiment station tests show that the sweetpotato yields are reduced about 25 bushels per acre for each 2 weeks delay in planting after about

Commercial growers should always plant at least part of their acreage fairly early. They can use vine so-called 'frills' in school buildings cuttings to set another part of their acreage especially for seed production. A large part of the commercial sweetpotato acreage should be set in April and May.

Bed seed 4 to 5 weeks before time to set first plants so you will have plants ready early. Growers in the southern part of the state usually start bedding seed about March 1. In North Mississippi you should start from March 10 to 20.

Commercial growers who do not have high quality, diseasefree Unit One Porto Rico seed would buy certified seed or plants of this variety. You can obtain information on

THE GREAT VICTORY

Not only is the filibuster in the Senate, over, but the filibuster against the filibuster is over. And the whole battle over the Administration's all-out effort to change the rules of the Senate, in order to clear the decks for the enactment of the civil rights program and other similar campaign promises of President Truman, nas failed. The Administration leadership was completely routed by a coalition of Southern Democratic and Northern Republican Senators.

The victory was complete and overwhelming. The Administration leaders set out to so weaken the rules of debate that it could put its program through the Senate, even as it is now able to do under the liberal rules of the house. But, instead of liberalizing the rules, when the smoke of battle had cleared away, the rules of unlimited debate were strengthened.

Heretofore the rules have required only two-thirds of the senators to invoke cloture (limit debate), but under the new rule adopted, twothirds of the full membership, of ninety-six senators, is required to invoke this gag rule. Moreover, the new rule also makes clear the heretofore debatable matter of whether cloture could be had on a motion to change the rules of the Senate. Under the new rule adopted, it's made perfectly clear that cloture can not be invoked on a motion to change the rules of the Senate. This may seem a bit involved, but it simply means that it is settled, once and for all that regardless of who is the presiding officer, a filibuster can be carried on idefinitely against any motion to change the

Significance of Victory

This great vcitory is indicative of several things: first, that a coalition of Southern Democratic and Northern Republican Senators can, even in this overwhelmingly dominated "Fair Deal" Congress, with the proper leadership, work its will; secondly, and more important, it means that the rule of unlimited debate can and will be used effectively in the interest of our great common country against the efforts of organized pressure minority groups in preventing them, in a wave of popular hysteria, from destroying the American way of life, and the American institutions; thirly and lastly, it proves, among other things, what so many of us have always contended-that the civil rights program is no more than a political weapon, used by scheming politicians as a vehicle to be elected to public office.

With the exception of two deserters, or "Progressives" if you prefer, all Southern Senators made a gallant fight and are entitled to share in the glory of the victory. To illustrate our own keen feeling of elation over this signal victory, as Chairman' of the Southern group organized to oppose this civil rights program in the House, I dispatched the following congratulatory message to Senator Richard B. Russell of Georgia, the leader of the Southern group in the Senate. My letter to Senator Russell follows: " . . . I would like to record, in all humility, the deep appreciation and heartfelt gratitude that all true Americans, who believe in the American way of life, must feel for you as a result of your masterful generalship in the recent successful battle over unlimited debate in the Senate Had your efforts failed, all would have been lost. For, the last bulwark against the modern trend toward the destruction of constitutional and conservative, sane gov-have been destroyed. My admiration and gratitude has been immeasurably increased for

Yes Sir, Insomnia's Contagious!

When Bud Swanson had trouble sleeping nights, and tried to get over it by turning up the radio full blast, he started an epidemic of insomnia all over.

Folks finally dropped a hint to Bud that he close the windows or turn the radio a little lower. Bud did-and that was the quickest cure for other folks' insomnia I've ever heard

Not that any of us object to the radio, or swing bands, or anything else that helps another person relax of an evening. (Myself, I like a glass of beer with a bit of cheese before I go to bed. I can't speak for you.)

From where I sit, good neighborliness means nothing more than simply respecting the other person's tastes and rights -without forcing byour own tastes or opinions down his throat. And that goes for Bud's radio, my glass of beer, or whatever temperate pleasure you happen to enjoy.

It influenced the introduction of a number of anti-branch bank bills and one bank holding company bill in Congress. While the bills were not enacted into law, they helped to arouse interest in the question. We were pleased when the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System introduced its Holding Company bill, which we supported. We have carried on forcefully in opposition to the Federal subsidy to Production Credit Associations. ### AMERICAN LEGION EGG DERBY NOTES

According to the committee charge, Saturday, March 26th will be a big day in the American Legion's First Annual Egg Derby. That Waveland is the day on which the eighteen entrants (eggs) will go to the post (hatchery.) All entrants will be set at the same time and the big question is, which will hatch first? Which will be the winner?

The winner will be known on Saturday, April 16th or thereabouts, and it is up to you to pick the winner and maybe cash in on a lucky guess at big odds. You don't have to invest a large amount, but the more you do invest, the more you will collect if you pick the winner.

There seems to be some misunderstanding as to who will get the dividends. The committee states that the sponsor does not receive the dividends but that they will go to the investor whose egg hatches
